

Historic, Archive Document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices

Japanese Weeping Cherry

A Grand Ornamental Tree

THE most beautiful of all weeping trees. Graceful, drooping branches, literally covered with delicate white blossoms, forming the handsomest and most picturesque of all flowering trees. It thrives on any soil, and requires no care other than a good mulch during the winter months. When in blossom this tree appears like a huge bank of snow, so profusely do the blossoms hang from the slender branches. These trees are propagated by the long and difficult process of grafting and every tree receives careful attention that all may grow to perfect form. No tree is more graceful in form and outline, and even when grafted on tall stems, its slender branches sweep the grass in graceful garlands. This beautiful tree should be on every lawn. It is a comparatively new specie and the available stock is somewhat limited, thus we advise you to place your order early.

PRICE: 3 year heads, 4 to 4½ feet stems . . $2.00 each

